Since 1944, SCCA has championed one mission: To bring motor sports to the masses of American men and women who are passionate about automobiles, speed and competition. From National Championships to regional events, whether professional or amateur, we exist to organize, support and develop auto racing at every level and provide an outlet for you to get out of the armchair and into the action. So, whether your passion is auto-crossing, rallying or road racing as a professional or as a weekend warrior, SCCA wants to help you fuel your passion...

PDX

Performance Driving eXperience -- Take your daily driver on-track with an SCCA instructor and start learning how to really go fast! No performance driving experience or fancy sports cars required! True to the "run what ya brung" adage, all it takes is your street car, a valid license and a helmet.

RACING OFFICIALS

Trackside workers are critical to a competitor's ability to drive fast and safe and there is no better way to get up close and personal with the race cars. Corner marshals, flaggers, emergency services specialists and the starter are on top of the action making it all possible. Stationed out on the track dressed in all white, their job is to communicate (via radio) with race officials in the tower, respond to emergencies and wave flags for the drivers. Workers are provided with food and drink throughout the race weekend and are eligible for free PDX sessions, among other incentives.

SOLO

Solo events are driving skill contests that emphasize the driver's ability and the car's handling characteristics. Courses are created using cones in large open spaces and drivers compete only against the clock. While speeds may be relatively low, the course still comes at you at a dizzying pace, testing your reflexes and powers of concentration. From novice to expert, from cars that are daily drivers to purpose built race cars, there is a competitive class for everyone.

SHADOW

Enjoy a unique opportunity to "shadow" a race car driver for an entire race event. See what it takes to get a car ready to race and the driver prepared to pilot the car. Listen in on crew-driver communications, ask lots of questions of the driver and crew, you might even be asked to step in and help with recording lap times, tire pressures, etc. Experience the race from the driver's perspective from the first practice session in the morning through the actual race event in the afternoon.

TIME TRIALS

Time trials is a driver's first introduction to lapping on a race track, but competing only against the clock without risking car to car contact. The program in Colorado runs on the same days as regional road racing events.

RACING

You guessed it, this is the real deal. Wheel to wheel road racing with the SCCA requires a competition license and a prepared race car with roll cage and other safety equipment. Racers compete on racetracks across the country, including here in Colorado.
